

LGBT+ Research Conference

Equality Today?

exploring the impact (or otherwise) of language and action about equality and rights on LGBT+ identity and lives

The aim of this conference is to explore how LGBT+ people have experienced and / or are experiencing actions and discourse around rights in their lives. This may include desire, experience across the lifespan, gender and sexual identity, intersectionality, politics, relationships and solidarity.

One-day conference for academics, activists and researchers conducting research on sexual orientation and gender identity issues and / or Bisexual, Gay, Intersex, Lesbian, Trans, Queer .. lives.

SPEAKERS:

Michelle Monkman, Office for National Statistics (ONS) (confirmed)

Michelle will be speaking about the work that ONS are undertaking around developing a question on gender identity in the 2021 Census.

Angelia Wilson, University of Manchester (invited)

Angie has been invited to speak about work on LGBT+ and intersectionality.

CALL FOR PAPERS

Proposals of up to 500 words should be sent to Seth Atkin satkin@ucu.org.uk Proposals should state presenters name, title and brief summary of the proposal and how it fits with the title and aim of the conference

Free for place for 1 presenter per scheduled paper

Key dates

Submission of proposal Wednesday 19th April

Notification of acceptance Friday 28th April

Deadline for registration Thursday 18th May

Conference Friday 9th June

On Friday 9th June

Registration opens: 11.00am

Close of Conference: 4.30pm

University of Manchester

This is the 4th conference organised by UCU to support and promote LGBTQI+ research.

More information and registration online

<https://ucu.wufoo.com/forms/ucu-lgbt-research-conference-2017/>